ENROLLING FOR ADDITIONAL MODULE

- Students may choose to take an additional module (i.e. enrol in the 6th course/course unit) if they are able to manage the workload

Requirements:

- Cumulative GPA  $\geq 3.30$  after first year of study.
- Maximum of 6.5 CUs only.

Term Info
Course Type	Max Enrolment	Max Biddable
COURSE	5.50 CU	6.50 CU

You are eligible to apply for additional CU.

How to Apply:

1. Fill up the "Application for Term Unit Load Increase" form online via OASIS > BOSS Bidding > Term Info.
  - To be submitted online within a week from the start of term
2. Once approved, you can bid for a 6th module in Round 2A ONLY.

* Note that there will be no additional e$ allocated for bidding of the additional module

BIDDING STRATEGIES

Drop If Course Exceeds (DICE)

- Students can bid for additional modules beyond their term enrolment limit, but excess modules will be automatically dropped in order of preference.
- Cannot use DICE to bid for another class of the same module, or another module with a conflicting timetable/exam clash.

Sniping

- Riskier strategy where you drop a successful bid and re-bid again at a lower price, typically done a few minutes before the window closes.
- Usually done to save e-credits when you have over-bid on a modules.

**NOTE: There is always a risk of being counter-sniped by other students.

Counter-Sniping

- Continuously refreshing the page when the bidding round is about to close, and bidding on a module if there is a sudden increase in class vacancies, due to other snipers dropping the module.
- It is also a riskier strategy

RESOURCES

Here are some useful resources you may want to take a look for more details:

- SoA Programme Structure
- OASIS – All about BOSS
- SMUSA BOSS Bidding Guidebook
- ASoc Module Difficulty Guidebook

GENERAL Q&A

---

If I bid earlier for the course, does that affect my chances of getting a successful bid?

- If you are referring to bidding earlier:
  - WITHIN each round & window → then the timing in which you bid does not matter.
  - BETWEEN rounds and windows (e.g. bidding in Round 1 as opposed to Round 2) → the available vacancies of a course in Round 1 is most likely higher than Round 2, which means you are more likely to be successful bidding for the same class in Round 1 than in Round 2.

Since there are already pre-assigned modules, what modules do students usually bid for?

- Many freshmen choose to take Introductory Statistics in their first year since it is a pre-requisite to several modules in their coursework.
- Other modules include SMU Core Modules in the Capabilities and Communities basket, as Accounting Core Modules tend to have a pre-requisite of passing ACCT111, which you will take in your first semester.
- Following that, in Y1S2, you can choose to take Accounting Core Modules. You can refer to the Course Sequence provided in BOSS which offers suggested terms in which you can take certain modules, or you can check out ASoc's Module Difficulty Guidebook for student surveyed responses as well!

Where can I check the pre-requisites and co-requisites for certain courses?

- You can refer to the Course Outline for the relevant courses.
- Alternatively, you can visit ASoc's Module Difficulty Guidebook that has a mindmap of the pre-requisite and co-requisite relationships between modules.

Are Singapore Studies and Asia Studies counted to Global Exposure?

No, they are of separate requirements.

- Global Exposure is cleared by going on exchange or participating in certain overseas programs (e.g. study missions). These programs are typically publicised via email and will disclose if it counts towards clearing Global Exposure.
- For Singapore Studies and Asia Studies, students will automatically clear these requirements by passing Big Questions and Economics & Society.

What do the numbers in the course code signify? (e.g. Does ACCT1XX mean we should take it in Year 1, and ACCT2XX mean we should take it in Year 2?)

- Generally, the course code signifies course progression. Modules such as ACCT111 tend to be pre-requisites for modules such as ACCT221 or ACCT224. Similarly, modules like ACCT221 and ACCT224 tend to be pre-requisites for ACCT3XX. Modules with ACCT4XX tend to be accounting electives. However, there may be exceptions to this generalisation.
- This guideline is largely applicable to modules offered by Schools (other examples include FNCE, MGMT, etc). For SMU Core Modules, this guideline is generally not applicable.

MISCELLANEOUS

---

Does the decimal point matter in bidding?

- Based on personal experience, the decimal points definitely matters
- You can choose your bids symbolically too!

What happens when we run out of credits?

- Although it goes without saying to conserve where you can, based on experiences shared previously by other students, some seniors have directly emailed SMU due to extenuating circumstances (e.g. it may delay their graduation if they are unable to take this module).
- Even though we are unable to speak on SMU's behalf as to criteria they use to give students this concession, it is worth a shot to email SMU if you are facing similar extenuating circumstances.
